in travel. But he could not keep his thoughts or his hands off paintings. He loved them, as an incident to be related a little later will illustrate. So he bought one now and again, a little more rapidly than had been his earlier habit, but also with the advantage of his experience. It was in January, 1907, that his first collection was sold, and his tour abroad took place the same year. He was taken ill in London, seriously ill, but he recovered and came home, although not again recovering robust health. No ill health, however, could keep him away from pictures while he could summon strength to get about, and last spring when under with the advantage of his experience, it was in January, 1907, that his first collection was sold, and his tour abroad took place the same year. He was taken ill in London, seriously ill, but he recovered and came home, although not again to home, although not again to the place of the plac

The Corote are "Lake Némi," once entitled "Solitude"; "St. Ouen's Island," Paysanne gardant as vache en lisière de bois." "Paysage avec deux figures' and "Le Pont de Palleul." The Duprés and "Le Pont de Palleul." The Duprés and "Vaches se désaltérant dans une mare." Daubigny's works are "The River Marne." The Willows" and "The Pond," and those by Diaz are "The Sultan's Daughter," "The Bathers," sold at the Hotel Drouot last year, and "Glade in the Wood." By Schreyer there is "The Bursting Shell." by Troyon "The Hay Cart," by Jacque "The Shepherdess" and "The Trimist under the general quality of the paintings brought together by Mr. Henry in this his second collection offers a fair parallel to that of the former collection, and although there are only twenty-one of them to the twenty-nine of the earlier collection the monetary value of the whole is shout equal to that of the former lot. Mr. Henry directed in his will that the paintings be sold at public sale in New York. The sale will be under the management of the American Art Association at the order of Mrs. Henrietta Moore Henry and the Girard Trust Company of Philadelphia, executors of the will.

Mr. Henry's cestate was left in trust during the lifetime of his widow. After her tleath it is to be divided equally by the trustees of the University of Pennsylvania for the establishment and maintenance of wards in specified hospitals, seach to be known as the H. S. Henry ward, for the treatment of white children's Hoppital in Philadelphia, the Children's Hoppital in Philadelphia, the Children's Hoppital in Philadelphia and the board of managere of the contributors to the Pennsylvania Hoppital.

Honeymooners and Their Trunks Part. The Count and Countess di Rasponi, who were married in Chattanooga recently and who were booked to sail by the Hamburg-American liner Amerika on their honeymoon, missed the ship by about fitten minutes. Most of their baggage was aboard. They caught the North German Lloyd liner Berlin, sailing two hours later than the Amerika, and will land at Naples instead of Hamburg and travel by rail to the German port to connect with their trunks.

Pot on Mourning at Sea.

When Maria Gay, the opera singer, sailed from Liverpool by the Cunarder Campania, in yesterday, she received a despatch from her home in Barcelona telling of the illness of her father, Ramon Pinchot. When the ship was two days out a wireless message that came in answer to several that she had sent to Barcelona told her that her father had died of pneumonia. The singer appeared in mourning immediately after receiving the news.
